Our Inventing and Entrepreneurship Social Purpose Projects

Teens Teach Tech	Program where teens teach technology to adults. Teens prepare a presentation or adapt an existing presentation, plan the delivery event and invite adults 18+ to join their class. For each adult taught, teens receive $10-$20 credit to be used for their benefit. Currently looking for additional teens to join. Sponsored in part by AT&T and Connected Nation
Practical Microfactory	You visualize a product for our Microfactory to build out. Then we seek grants to include development of your product. E.g. Bunny Factory project.
Curriculum Development	Develop video and written curriculum that informs on use of your product.
Proposal Development and Management	Learn proposal development and grant management for projects and products.
Handmade Carnival	A mechanism for playful testing of your product. Sometimes grant sponsored, sometimes paid, sometimes free.

Online and In Person Sales	Market your products at local artist community events, and online under the Makersville brand. In person may combine with a fee to play the handmade carnival.
Rube Goldberg	Learn Inventing skills through development and planning of Rube Goldberg competition-specific curriculum.
LEGO	Leverage our interest in LEGO to develop models for projects in our various areas of interest.
Historic Long Beach	Make books that record memories of individuals, activity books and do projects that tie to historic Long Beach.
Makerspace	Access our Makerspace to develop your products and projects, or join one of ours.
Young Ambassadors	Connect Internationally. Plan and participate in hybrid international events and meetings. Join our free Young Ambassadors program to access our programs and projects.
